Help Stop Hate Crime

A chance to share your experiences.

POLICE & CRIME COMMISSIONER

www.skillsforpeople.org.uk

Men of Action (a self advocacy group at Skills for People) have been given money from the Police and Crime Commissioner's fund to do some work around Hate Crime.

They want to help people with a disability to share their stories and feel more confident. They would like to invite you to be a part of this work by sharing your stories and experiences of Hate Crime.

The project involves sharing your story about when you have experienced a Hate Crime—either to yourself or to others.

For those who want to, you will have the chance to have your story filmed and used as a tool to help schoolchildren learn and understand about Hate Crime.

All videos and stories will be anonymous—we will not show your face or use your name if you do not want us to.

We want to hear the stories and experiences of both men and women.

The first session, on 25th February 2014 is a 'getting to know each other session'.

The second session, on 5th March is for filming stories and creating the booklet that will go into schools to help children learn about Hate Crime.

You must be able to come to both days. There is also a chance to be involved later in the project if you wish.
